Susan E. Notter, pastry arts program director at The Pennsylvania School of Culinary Arts in Lancaster, will be one of two pastry chefs taking a shot at baking their way to the top by competing for the title of 2014 American Culinary Federation Northeast Region Pastry Chef of the Year. The other chef is Cathleen A. Barron of Depew, N.Y., baking and pastry coordinator at the Niagara Falls Culinary Institute, Niagara Falls, N.Y.

The competition will take place at Johnson & Wales University, Providence, R.I., April 12, during the 2014 ACF Northeast Regional Conference held at The Crowne Plaza Hotel at

The two chefs are competing for the opportunity to represent the ACF Northeast region in the national competition held in Kansas City, Mo., July 25-29. The regional winner receives bragging rights, travel expenses and a complimentary registration to the national competition. The national winner receives $5,000 and the title of ACF Pastry Chef of the Year. At the regional showdown, the competitors will prepare four portions of a dessert for judges in 1 hour, 40 minutes.

The ACF Pastry Chef of the Year award, sponsored by Plugrá European-Style Butter, recognizes a pastry chef who displays a passion for the craft, has an accomplished reputation in the pastry field and has helped educate others by sharing skills and knowledge.

Most recently, Notter competed as part of the ACF culinary team that placed second and received a gold medal at the 2013 Dubai World Hospitality Championship. As a recognized pastry chef and instructor, Notter is frequently a guest chef at other culinary schools and has competed on several Food Network shows. Notter is a member of ACF Harrisburg Chapter.
